- Personal goals and intended work as part of the specific committee:

My personal goals are to steadily develop and promote Wushu for a broader international acknowledgment of this Chinese cultural heritage. I work daily for a deeper understanding of Wushu especially in the western hemisphere (Germany, Europe). I truly believe that through transparent judging in competitions a healthy development of our Wushu sport can be enhanced.

- Vision as a whole for the committee's future work, including specific potential projects if applicable:

Wushu as a very diversified sport needs transparent rules, greater professionalization and standardization despite or because of the diversity of the sport. Wushu athletes, coaches and judges need to have a deeper understanding of the essence or spirit of Wushu. Therefore, better teamwork on an international level, greater objectivity in judging and greater professionalization in teaching is required.

I want to be a promoter of international cooperation. The Wushu world meets at international competitions. Thus, the work of judges is essential to the understanding of modern Wushu. I want to develop a better understanding through the understanding of principles and rules of judging.
